

Monette is an artist and a maker. Originally from the Philippines, she now calls Foxborough, Massachusetts home. She worked as an English teacher before returning to her first love, art.

Later on, her curiosity led her to digital tools that allowed her to explore different ways of creating. She taught herself Photoshop, then Illustrator when work with a design company made it necessary!

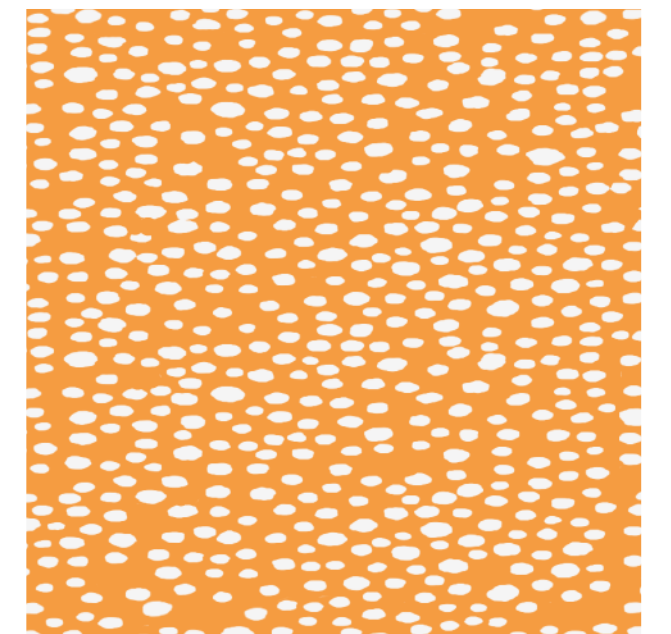

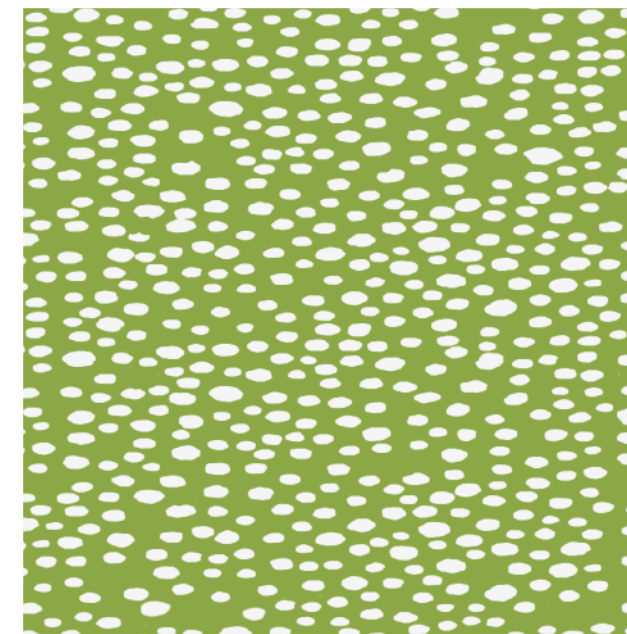

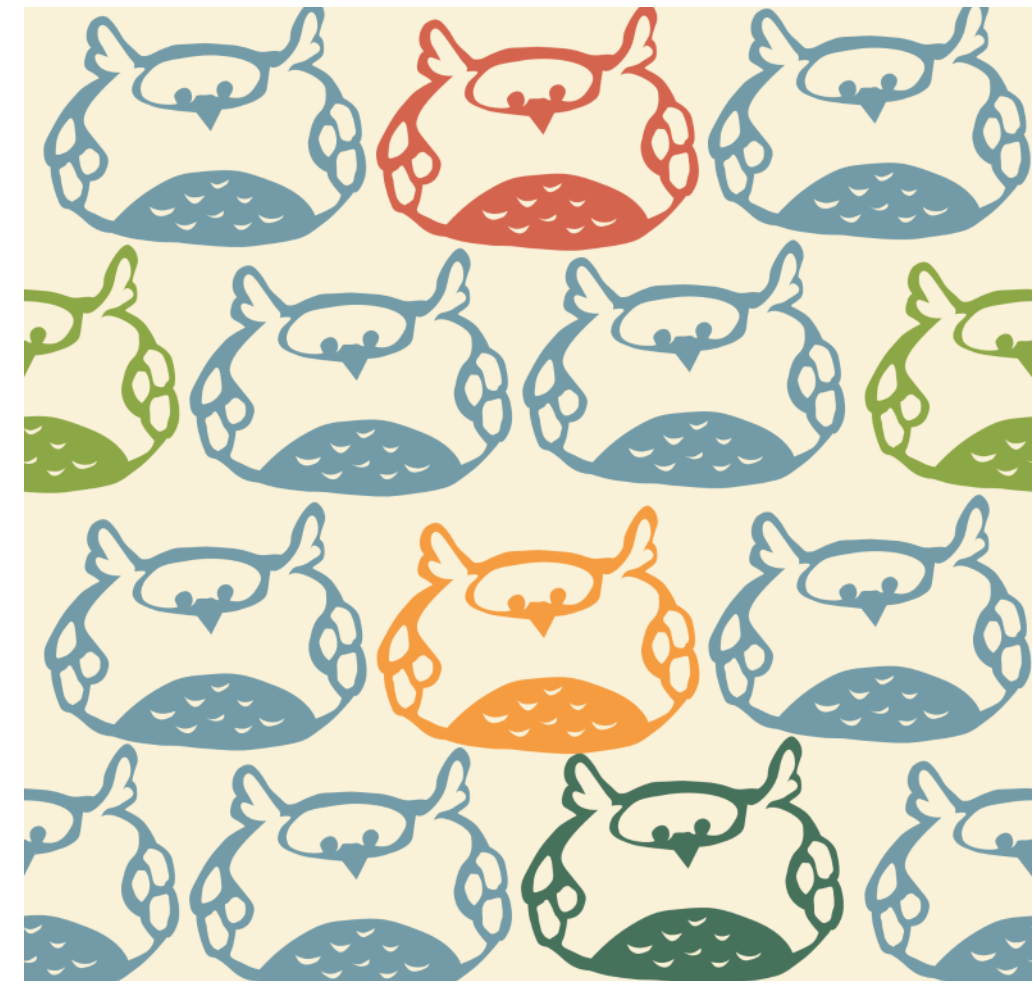

That same curiosity led her to other creative endeavors, including making art dolls, handmade books, sewing and embroidery projects. Also a fine artist, she uses her free time to do traditional painting.

Monette is inspired by the joy that comes from movement and the wonder that comes with seeing through children's eyes. Her free-spirited granddaughter, Sophie, is one of her sources of inspiration.
